HARTFORD CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL

SEX AND RELATIONSHIPS EDUCATION POLICY

A. PURPOSE:

At Hartford Church of England High School, all students have the opportunity to access a well-planned programme of education relating to personal relationships and sexual matters.

As a Church of England school, we seek in all things to be both distinctively Christian and thoroughly inclusive. Our teaching is rooted in the Christian values of love, respect and faithfulness in our relationships with others.

We recognise that not all students will share the distinctive Christian understandings of marriage and sexual ethics, but it is important that they understand them and are enabled to make their own informed choices. Our teaching will be inclusive, non-judgemental; and include religious, non-religious, cultural, legal and moral viewpoints.

Sex and relationship education helps to prepare pupils for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of adult life. It is about understanding the importance of marriage for family life, stable and loving relationships, respect, love and care. It is also about the teaching of sex, sexual orientation and sexual health.

It has 3 main elements:

1. Attitudes and values

- Learning the importance of values and individual conscience and moral considerations
- Learning the value of family life, marriage, and stable and loving relationships for the nurture of children
- Learning the value of respect, love and care
- Exploring considering and understanding moral dilemmas
- Developing critical thinking as part of decision – making.

2. Personal and social skills

- Learning to manage emotions and relationships confidently and sensitively
- Developing self respect and empathy for others
- Learning to make choices based on an understanding of difference and with an absence of prejudice
- Developing an appreciation of the consequences of choices made
- Managing conflict
- Learning how to recognise and avoid exploitation and abuse

3. Knowledge and understanding

- Having knowledge of the law on sexual behaviour
- Learning and understanding physical development at appropriate stages
- Understanding human sexual orientation, reproduction, sexual health, emotions and relationships

- Learning about contraception and the range of local and national sexual advice, contraception and support services
- Learning the reasons for delaying sexual activity, and the benefits to be gained from such delay
- Knowing how unplanned pregnancy can be avoided
- Knowing about sexually transmitted infections

B. Sex and relationships in the curriculum

Elements of sex and relationships education are delivered through Personal, Social, Health and Citizenship education in the form of PET sessions, the National Curriculum Science course, Citizenship Days in Years 10, Religious Education, assemblies, support from outside agencies, and incidentally through aspects of the curriculum.

D. Consultation:

Staff and governors were consulted about this policy and the content of the schemes of work.

E. Relationship to other policies:

Sex and relationship education forms an integral part of the curriculum policy, and the schemes of work for science. It also forms part of the school's 'safe-guarding children' policies which include Child Protection and Anti - bullying.

F. Roles and responsibilities:

The Governing Body will:

- Ensure that sex education is provided in a way that is consistent with our ethos, namely that it should be distinctively Christian and thoroughly inclusive. It should encourage pupils to consider morals, the value of family life and the importance of marriage, includes education about HIV, AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases.
- Seek the advice of the head teacher on this policy, keep it up to date and make it available to parents.

The Head Teacher will ensure that:

- The governing body is advised about the nature and organisation of sex and relationships education and how it reflects the aims and values of the school.
- Sex education is provided in a way that is consistent with the school's Christian ethos, encouraging pupils to consider morals, the value of family life, and the importance of marriage.
- Pupils are protected from inappropriate teaching materials.

- A scheme of work is agreed and implemented.
- Parents are informed about the programme for sex and relationships education prior to each module being taught and their right to withdraw their child from that module. The exception to this is the module in the National Curriculum Science scheme in year 7 which covers the structure of the male and female reproductive systems, puberty and biological aspects of reproduction.
- Sex and relationships education is reviewed and evaluated annually in consultation with young people, staff, parents and outside agencies.

All staff are expected to:

- Provide sex and relationships education in accordance with this policy and in a way which encourages pupils to consider morals and the value of family life
- Participate in training to provide sex and relationships education in line with the school curriculum policy.
- Implement the agreed scheme of work
- Ensure that pupils who are absent for any aspect of sex and relationships education have an opportunity to access missed work by providing key notes and a time for discussion.

- Pupils, parents, carers and staff will be made aware of the school's confidentiality policy
- Pupils will be informed of sources of confidential help, for example, the school nurse, G.P and local health services
- Teachers cannot guarantee pupils absolute, unconditional confidentiality.
- If confidentiality has to be broken, pupils will be informed first, then supported appropriately.
- Pupils will be reassured that their best interests will be maintained.
- They will be encouraged to talk with their parents /carers and supported to do so.
- If there is any possibility of abuse, staff will follow the school's child protection procedure
- Whilst teachers are not legally bound to inform parents of any disclosure of a sexual nature, only in the most exceptional circumstances will a member of staff handle such information without parental knowledge. This will only take place under the specific guidance of the child protection designated senior teacher, who will take advice from the LEA.
